DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kanou et al. (5,974,946).

Kanou et al. discloses a component of a compressor having a lubricating surface portion in a slide contact area that is formed of a copper based material containing solid lubricant but no lead. Wherein the compressor includes a swash plate type compressor having a swash plate (15) with a lubricating surface, a rotating shaft (5), a piston (51), and a shoe (79, 81) with a lubricating surface.

Art Unit: 3745

Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Jingu.

Jingu discloses a component of a compressor having a lubricating surface portion in a slide contact area that is formed of a copper based material containing solid lubricant but no lead. Wherein the compressor includes a swash plate type compressor having a swash plate (24) with a lubricating surface, a rotating shaft (23), a piston (22), and a shoe (33, 34) with a lubricating surface.

Claims 1, 2, and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sugiura et al.

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Sugiura et al. discloses a component of a compressor having a lubricating surface portion, being a lubricating film, in a slide contact area that is formed of an aluminum-based material containing solid lubricant but no lead. Wherein the compressor includes a swash plate type compressor having a swash plate (10) with a lubricating surface, a rotating shaft (9), a piston (8), and a shoe (20) with a lubricating surface.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Sugiura et al in view of Kanou et al. (5,974,946).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art only under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) might be overcome by: (1) a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not an invention "by another"; (2) a showing of a date of invention for the claimed subject matter of the application which corresponds to subject matter disclosed but not claimed in the reference, prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the reference under 37 CFR 1.131; or (3) an oath or declaration under 37 CFR 1.130 stating that the application and reference are currently owned by the same party and that the inventor named in the application is the prior inventor under 35 U.S.C. 104, together with a terminal disclaimer in accordance with 37 CFR 1.321(c). For applications filed on or after November 29, 1999, this rejection might also be overcome by showing that the subject matter of the reference and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person. See MPEP § 706.02(l)(1) and § 706.02(l)(2).

Art Unit: 3745

Sugiura et al. teaches the component of a compressor as described above in claim 2, but does not specifically teach the method of forming the lubricating layer on the component. Kanou et al. teaches various well known methods of forming the lubricating film including sintering. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the method of forming the lubricating film on the component by forming the lubricating film by sintering as taught by Kanou et al. for the purpose of adhering the lubricating film to the component.
